

Use of AI-Assisted Tools

During this project, AI tools (Gemini) were used strictly as a minor editing assistant. The core machine learning logic, pipeline configurations, and architecture designs were entirely developed by myself. The tool was only used to help format the final markdown files, verify terminal command syntax, and assist in refining the documentation layouts. I have fully built, tested, and verified the execution of the entire pipeline and am prepared to explain all architectural decisions during the technical interview.
